

4th Workshop

«Function and Meaning: Their Role in Constituting and Representing Knowledge»

Laboratory of Philosophical Research and Translation

Department of Philosophy and Social Studies – University of Crete

“Michelis” room, 6th June 2016

Rethymno, Crete

Programme

	Welcome
10:00-10:30	“General Introduction: Why a Dialogue between Philosophers and Computer Scientists around Ontology”, George Bruseker (ICS-FORTH)
10:30-12:15	“Function and Meaning: The Double Aspects of Technology”, Andrew Feenberg (Simon Fraser University, Vancouver)
	Discussant: Konstantinos Kavoulakos (University of Crete)
	“Function and Functionalism: Discussing the Limits”, Maria Daskalaki (ICS-FORTH)
12:15-12:30	Coffee Break
12:30-13:50	“Representation and Phenomenal Qualities in Perception”, Maria Venieri (University of Crete)
	“Function and Experience in John Dewey’s Experimentalism”, Dimitris Alexakis (University of Crete)
13:50-15:30	Lunch

15:30-16:30	“Identifiable Individuals and Reality: What Do We Describe and Why”, Martin Doerr (ICS-FORTH)
16:30-16:45	Coffee break
16:45-18:00	“Function and Meaning in Depiction: The Riddle of Style”, Katerina Bantinaki (University of Crete) “Modelling in Digital Humanities. Between Function and Meaning”, Christina Marras (ILIESI-CNR)
18:00-18:30	Discussion – future work Closing workshop